

Greshin Rambles

Queen's Decree

This is a missive I have been asked to reprint for the Queen. Long may she rule.

Caravan Attacks

Its seems that the actions of Ageious Fage have some long standing consequences. A large number of the red scaled draconian have led raids upon the merchant caravan. Few people were hurt but The caravan was slowed greatly and was unable to make its circuit in the past few months. The creatures took nothing and killed know one, but they did disable many of the wagons that the caravan uses. The attacks have stop in the past month and the Caravan is once again on the move. As this is written it is currently moving toward the human border and will resupply and make its way out once again.

Brokenwillow Finds Sir Emeil Swarthout Guilty

Sir Emeil Swarthout was found guilty of murder and put to death in the budding town of Brokenwillow. Not many details are known save that he was contracted legally to be found and that he was given a fair trial by a justiciary. The only information we received was by the Tower Knight who carried out the sentence. Who he murdered is still unknown to me at this time and I would like further information for many who were there or part of the trial.

House White Sparrow Falls

The Household know as White Sparrow has fallen. The household was lead by Sir Emeil Swarhout and was charged with raiding deep into the Taur lands. Of the 27 members only 6 remain. One of the surviving members reported that they were broken into smaller groups to fend off attacks from the Taur. This turned out to be an ill fated move as they were picked apart. The largest group, which is also the only group to survive, expected to receive a stash of weapons from Sir Emeil. The weapons never came and the group was forced to quit the field. Little is known of the fate of the other groups, save that they never returned from their raids. It would be hard pressed to believe that they are all dead.

Mage Party in Broken Willow

Alyssa will be hosting a Mage Party during this weekend's gathering at Broken Willow. Each person presenting themselves for entrance to the party will have to prove himself or herself a Mage by casting for her. The day and time will be Saturday when magic enchants in the evening, to accommodate both those who typically cast immediately after then to prepare for the coming hours and those who have expended themselves in the previous hours. Dinner will be available.

Request for Ritual Mages

Alyssa of Broken Willow is interested in learning about performing rituals known in the world, and thus requests any mages in possession of such knowledge to contact her or meet her at Broken Willow.

